MIDDLING HARD HIT

So Comments the Colonel on Pennsylvania
Primaries

Orster Bay, N. Y., April 15.—"We hit them middling hard," said Colonel Roosevelt in talking of his victory in the Pennsylvania primaries.

The colonel was greatly elated and exhibited a heap of telegrams sent him, giving details of the result and extending congratulations.

Colonel Roosevelt was asked whether in his opinion his nomination was now probable.

"I would not say that," he responded.

The result in Pennsylvania pleased him particularly because he considered it "an expression of popular opinion to the bosses."

They have heard a good deal from me on the stump," he said, "but they will hear more."

Colonel Roosevelt said some of his opponents were misrepresenting the number of delegates elected for President Taft and himself. He said he had been considering preparing a formal statement in regard to this matter.

"At the present time," he continued, "I think that the delegates really instructed are about evenly divided. I think it is about 150 each."

The colonel gave Mississippi as an example of what he had in mind. He said he believed that the entire Mississippi delegation was for him, and yet his opponents claimed it all for the president.

"The contest in that case," he added, "is on the Taft side."

He asserted that he had 22 delegates from Missouri, although some of his opponents conceded him none.

In New York, he continued, he already had ten delegates, with ten others ready to vote for him, and he expressed the belief that at the national convention he would have twenty more New York votes, providing it was apparent to these twenty delegates that he could have half of the delegates to the convention.

At 1:25 today Mr. Roosevelt will start on what will probably be one of the most extensive trips of the campaign. He will go to Chicago over the Pennsylvania road instead of the New York Central, as originally planned.

According to the program he will spend Wednesday and Thursday in

SUPERVISOR OF COUNTY SCHOOLS

Miss Matilda Petersen has been re-elected primary supervisor of the Weber county schools for the coming year.

She will also have charge of the primary work in the Davis county schools. Miss Petersen has had charge of the primary work in the past eight years. Her re-election took place at a meeting of the board of education Saturday afternoon.

The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the idea of submitting to a vote of the people a $100,000 bond issue in order to raise money to build several new schools and install steam-heating systems in several schools that are not now receiving any direct benefits from the old furnace systems. The meeting adjourned without any definite action being taken in the matter, but another meeting will be held next Saturday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the matter again.

SERMON ON LIFE BEYOND THE GRAVE

Rev. J. E. Carver delivered the first of his post-Easter series of sermons upon "Life Beyond the Grave" at the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

During the course of his remarks Rev. Carver said:

"I want you to think with me to-night upon the meaning of the promise, 'I am the resurrection and the life.' It is the most wonderful word in our language and one of the most mysterious as well. We seem to value life largely by what it possesses of visible realities. But clothes, jewelry or possessions do not enhance the value of the real 'I' nor do they in any way belong to it by nature. Your body is not you, for you speak of it as your body. You are in some way separate from bone and blood and flesh. They are yours, but not you. Neither is your brain you. It is the home or seat of your thought, but it is not you. Your brain changes with the years, almost completely every seven years, but your identity continues. It is your brain that is not you. You manifest your personality by your thoughts, feelings, emotions and will, but these are not you. They have changed through the years while you have had identity. Back of all your desires, habits and actions the 'I' stands in judgment. You said 'I wanted to do that and I did it, but I should not, I ought not to do it. No trend of desire or habit, however strong, can keep you from passing judgment upon yourself, and on this fact, Kant, the greatest of modern philosophers, based his argument, for immortality."

"Moreover this mysterious 'I' judges the completeness of our work so that we never think but that our best work could have been done even better by us. Is not this personality, this 'I' that remembers, wills, judges, hopes and loves, is not this the immortal part of man. The body may return to dust. It was not me but only mine. I shall live on. There is a resurrection of the body, of that we may speak later, but death has no power over the real 'I.' Jesus Christ said to the thief, 'Today thou shalt be with me in paradise.' The bodies were for a time left but the real thou and 'me' passed beyond."

"Jesus Christ said, 'In my Father's house are many mansions.' I go to prepare a place for you, and I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there you may be also. We think of this earth as one of these many mansions, forming a part of God's world. The telescope tells us that each night and shall we believe the glass at night and not the word of God by day? One of these mansions elsewhere is the transient home of those who have died, just as this earth is the home of the living. I have spoken at length of the conditions of that future transient home as the Bible reveals them. Many whom you love are there. Death does reign supreme but death is but an incident in life as time is in eternity. We live, die and live again. Death is the gateway to a larger life if this life be lived well. We say that this is an age that seeks realities, a practical age. If this be so, the great reality of living is the part of living that is abiding. 'And now abideth faith, hope and love.' Let these have large places in your life."

SUBWAYS FOR THE CITY OF NAPLES

The projected subway for Naples, to be constructed during the next eight years by the Franco-Italian Metropolitan Railway company, will be one of the most important municipal improvements yet carried out there. There are larger cities, but few that stand in such urgent need of subway connections, and the $6,000,000, which is the estimated cost of the main line now agreed upon, will be well spent.

The city, as everybody knows from pictures even without going there, is pent in between the sea and the high volcanic hill, spurs of which run down almost to the water. The old Naples could nestle very snugly on the fore-shore and the slopes, but the city has long since outgrown these confines. Unfortunately, there is no good connection between the lower levels and the Vomero, as the low-lying hills are called, and while several fine, wide boulevards have been opened in the heart of the city, the surface roads do little to relieve congestion. An interesting account of the lines projected is given by the Matino of Naples.

LEGAL

NOTICE.

Will Pay City Warrants.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Treasurer of Ogden City, will at his office on and after this date, pay City Warrants bearing registry numbers A 17298 to A 17776 and B 17298 to B 17776, all inclusive, and further that all such Warrants not presented to me for payment on or before April 15th, 1912, will cease to draw interest thereafter.

WALLACE FOULGER,
City Treasurer.

Dated at Ogden, Utah, April 9th, 1912.

It had at first been planned to make the Vomero the hub of a number of radial lines, urban and suburban, but this grandiose plan was put by on account of the cost. The present scheme contemplates two principal lines, one from the Corso Garibaldi (Stazione) to the Vomero, and another passing through Via Roma (Tolosa) to the Vomero, while the other, which connects the Vomero with the Vomero and Piazza Garibaldi will be but fourteen minutes. The project will involve a number of elevators, some of them with long hauls, especially at Piazza Vanvitelli, where four elevators will be installed, each carrying forty passengers and making the ascent in a minute. While in places the tunnels will be very deep, the conditions are said to be very favorable, for the volcanic tuff of which the hills are composed is both firm and easily worked—Springfield Republican.

There is prospect of a strike in Oshkosh, Wis., this spring if demands of the millmen are not granted. Five thousand workmen will be affected.
